Our Heritage

The Marlow "Outlaws" have an appropriate name. The city of Marlow was named after the Marlow Brothers who were supposed to be outlaws.

The Marlow Brothers were Charlie, Epp (sometimes known as Abb), Boone George, and Alf.

The late Dr. Dolph Montgomery in an article appearing in the Marlow Review of December 4, 1919, states that the Marlows came to the Indian Territory about 1866, but the date when they came to Marlow is indefinite. They lived in a half dugout in the north part of Marlow, which was located in a grove of oak trees and was for a long time known as the Marlow Grove. Dr. Montgomery states that this dugout was located about six blocks north of Main Street just on the east side of the Rock Island Railroad. Another source states that the dugout was located north of the Park. The Chisholm Trail ran near this location.

In 1880, they sold their holdings to Bill Wade, who came up from Bellevue, Texas. After leaving Marlow, the Brothers went to Graham, Texas, but it seems that Boone spent most of his time in the Indian Territory after that. He was accused of crime, and in attempting his arrest Boone shot Sheriff Wallace of Young County Texas, but the sheriff recovered. Boone came back to Indian Territory and was hiding on Hell Creek southwest of Marlow. Three of his supposed friends were looking after him. A large reward was offered, and these supposed friends claimed that he died, and they took him back to Graham in a wagon. They were arrested for the murder of Boone. These parties who took Boone back to Graham still have relatives in this vicinity, and perhaps it would be inappropriate to give their names.

The other Marlow Brothers were arrested for attempting to kill Sheriff Wallace. Sheriff Wallace exonerated all of them except Boone. However, the Brothers had many enemies and when the officers were taking them from Graham to Weatherford, claiming that there was danger of mob violence at Graham, a mob attacked. The Brothers were shackled together two and two. Two of the Marlow Brothers were killed immediately, and two that were not killed were shackled to their dead Brothers. Those still living grabbed the guns of the officers and repulsed the mob, killing several of the mob. They were compelled to cut off the ankles of their dead brothers in order to free themselves. They fled to Colorado. Later they were tried but were found not guilty.

Several of the mob who attacked were tried for conspiracy in the United States Court. Judge McCormick, in passing sentence on the mobsters, said, "This is the first time in the annals of history when unarmed prisoners shackled together ever repelled a mob. Such cool courage that preferred to fight against such great odds and die, if at all, in glorious battle rather than die ignominiously by a frenzied mob, deserves to be commemorated in song and history."

This case was appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, and Solicitor General Taft, later president of the United States, presented the case on behalf of the government.

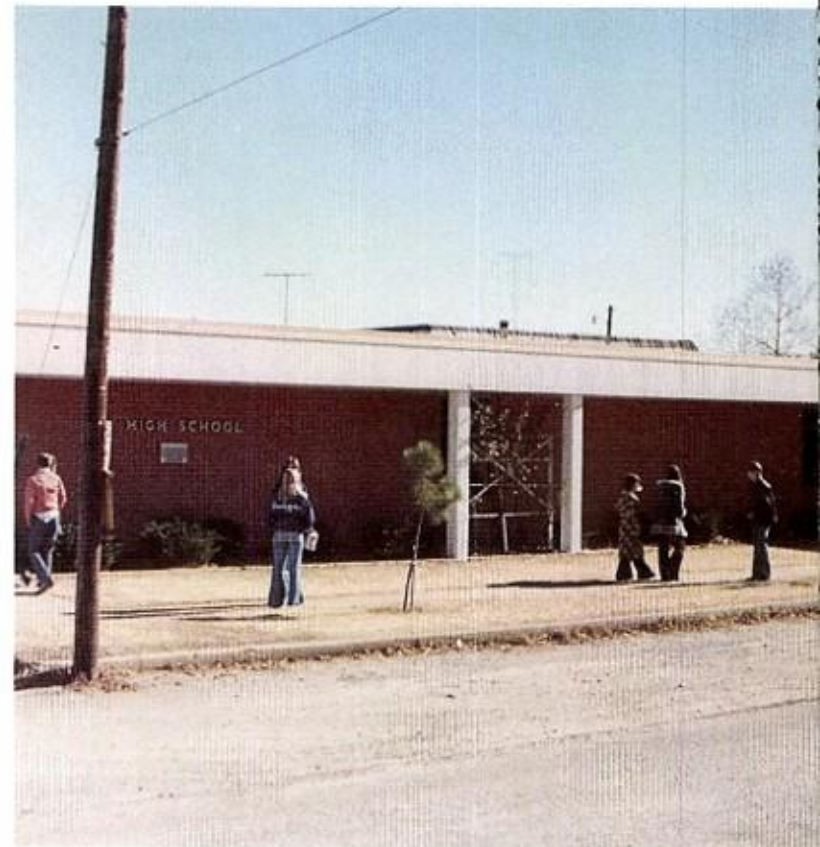

The two Marlow Brothers who were not killed later went back to Colorado and have not been heard from since.

The writer has prepared a more extensive article on this subject which will be given to the Marlow High School, and which will be available to those who desire to pursue the matter further. The School also will be furnished a copy of the article by Dr. Dolph Montgomery which appeared in the Marlow Review.

The information here given was obtained from Dr. Montgomery's Article, from Charley Wade of Comanche, Jim Keith of Addington, Lem Tittle of Mangum Oklahoma, and Bill Baker of Ringling.

It appears that the Marlow Brothers were extremely rough characters; but I am informed that many people in Young County, Texas, did not consider them to be outlaws.

The 1977 yearbook marks the Silver Anniversary of "The Outlaw." The yearbook staff would like to pay special recognition to the community, the parents, and the students who have made the "77" Outlaw possible. Without your help, this yearbook and the 24 before it would never have been possible.

This edition of "The Outlaw" also marks 25 years of tradition and preparation at Marlow High School. It is the 25th edition for Mrs. Millwee as adviser.

Times have changed, students come and go, and even the buildings are different, but the honor and ideals of "MHS" remain high. We hope you will look at these pages and remember Our Happy Days at Marlow High.

In its history Marlow has twice received the highest honor awarded in National FBLA, The Gold Seal Chapter Award. Marlow also has the distinction of having the first Mr. FBLA, Ross Coyle, who represented Oklahoma at National in 1953. Chapter 677 of 1977 has tried to keep up the tradition of hard work and dedication. Marlow B&PW has sponsored FBLA since B&PW was organized in Marlow. The Outlaw Band contributed to the tradition which has grown with each passing year. The '77 Outlaw Band raised spirit at pep assemblies, football games, basketball games, and participated in competition at every chance. The entire band took part in District Marching Contest and District Concert Contest. Many chose to compete for additional honors such as All-Region Band and District Ensemble Contest. Marlow was well represented at All-Region, and District Ensemble Contest. saw eight qualify for state competition.

The band's hard work was rewarded with a trip to the Mardi Gras at New Orleans with the help of the Band Parents. The band was conditioned for the parade at Mardi Gras by marching every day, working up to forty blocks. Two chartered buses were taken. The trip lasted four days with the band spending three nights at the New Orleans Hilton.

Outlaw Band Shows Pride In 1977

A tour of the Mississippi by steamboat was given to the band. The next day saw the Outlaw Band taking part in the "Greatest Bands In Dixie" Mardi Gras parade. The parade was viewed by over a million people along the parade route. The Outlaw Band was met with great enthusiasm with hundreds along the way screaming their approval of the band representing Oklahoma. The competition was held in the middle of the distance where the band gave the Outlaw version of the "Charleston" and the "Hustle" while playing "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans" and "Horse". The band received a superior trophy for their parade show and performance.

It has been an honor for us to be a part of the Outlaw Band where the traditional pride of its members is sincere and the people behind the program are truly dedicated.

Scott Ousley, Supt., Marlow Schools Master of Science, University of Oklahoma

I want to express my very real pleasure and honor for the opportunity to serve as Superintendent of Marlow Schools. I shall do my best to continue improvement of the educational opportunities available to the youth of the Marlow Community.

Marlow is a beautiful place to live. Often people from other areas remark that our city is an attractive, clean-looking community. This is true, but the real strength of this community is the attitude of its citizens. They have always emphasized the importance of good schools, but more importantly, have faithfully supported them. Marlow will continue to have quality schools as long as the citizens support and show a concern for better education for our youth.

This yearbook tells the story of the fine Marlow Schools. Good schools are the results of students willing to learn, and of interested, concerned parents and patrons supporting the policies of the school board.

Scott Ousley

Jim Hupp, Principal, Senior High School, Master of Education, East Central State College

One of the most important elements of a good school is having a competent staff. At Marlow High School the staff is a cooperating group whose members have common purposes and are motivated by common ideals. Each staff member has a broad general education and has extensive preparation in his specialty.

The educational requirements for teachers at MHS and the curriculum offerings far exceed the state requirements. This has enabled Marlow High School to be a member of the North Central Accrediting Association since 1928.

The curriculum at Marlow High School includes those activities, both formal and informal, carried on in relation to planned courses of study. It functions through learning experiences and instructional materials from various fields of knowledge. Attempts are made to provide learning experiences that meet not only the general needs but also the specialized needs related to the unique abilities, interests, and expectations of each individual. The instructional activities are planned to develop knowledge, understanding, attitudes, ideals, habits, and skills that are appropriate to a full life in American society.

The classroom instructional program is the dominant means of attaining a school's objectives. The student activities program at Marlow High School is the major means of fulfilling those objectives that are not adequately served by regular classroom instruction. Experiences in the student activities program are designed to help meet the leisure, recreational, social, and emotional interests and needs of all students. In all activities, the development of democratic leadership and cooperative attitudes is a major objective.

Inspired Outlaws Made State Playoffs

Outlaws prepare mentally to meet the Leopards during Pep Rally.

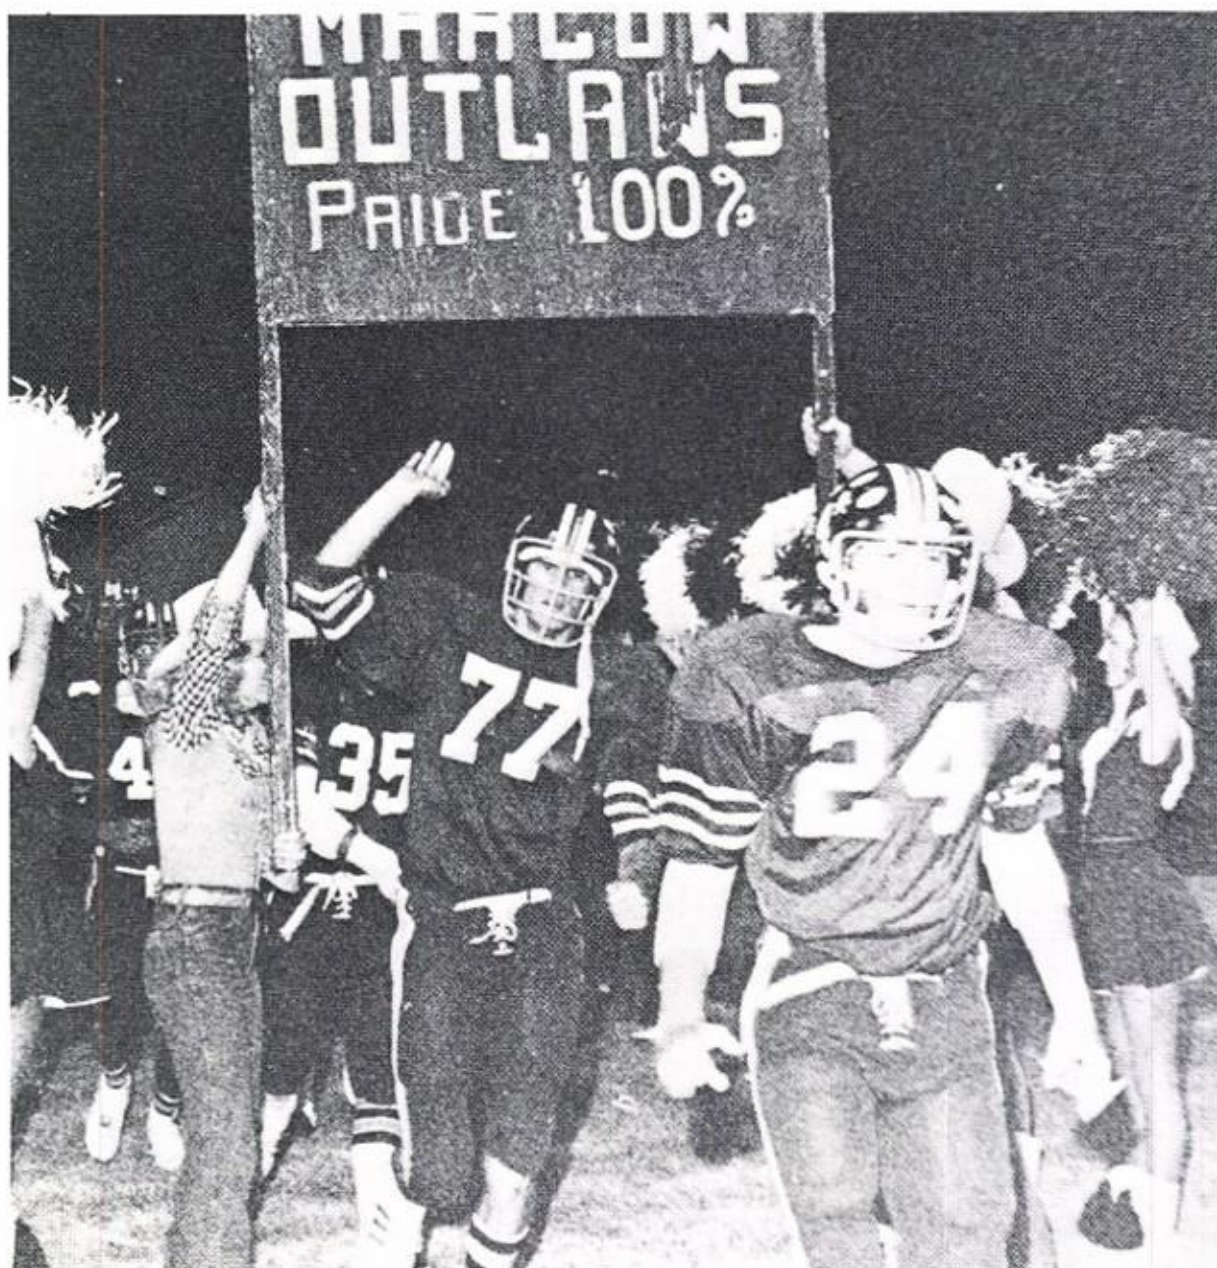

The 1976 football squad was a true copy from the pages of the past as they exhibited all the characteristics of the great outlaw football teams.

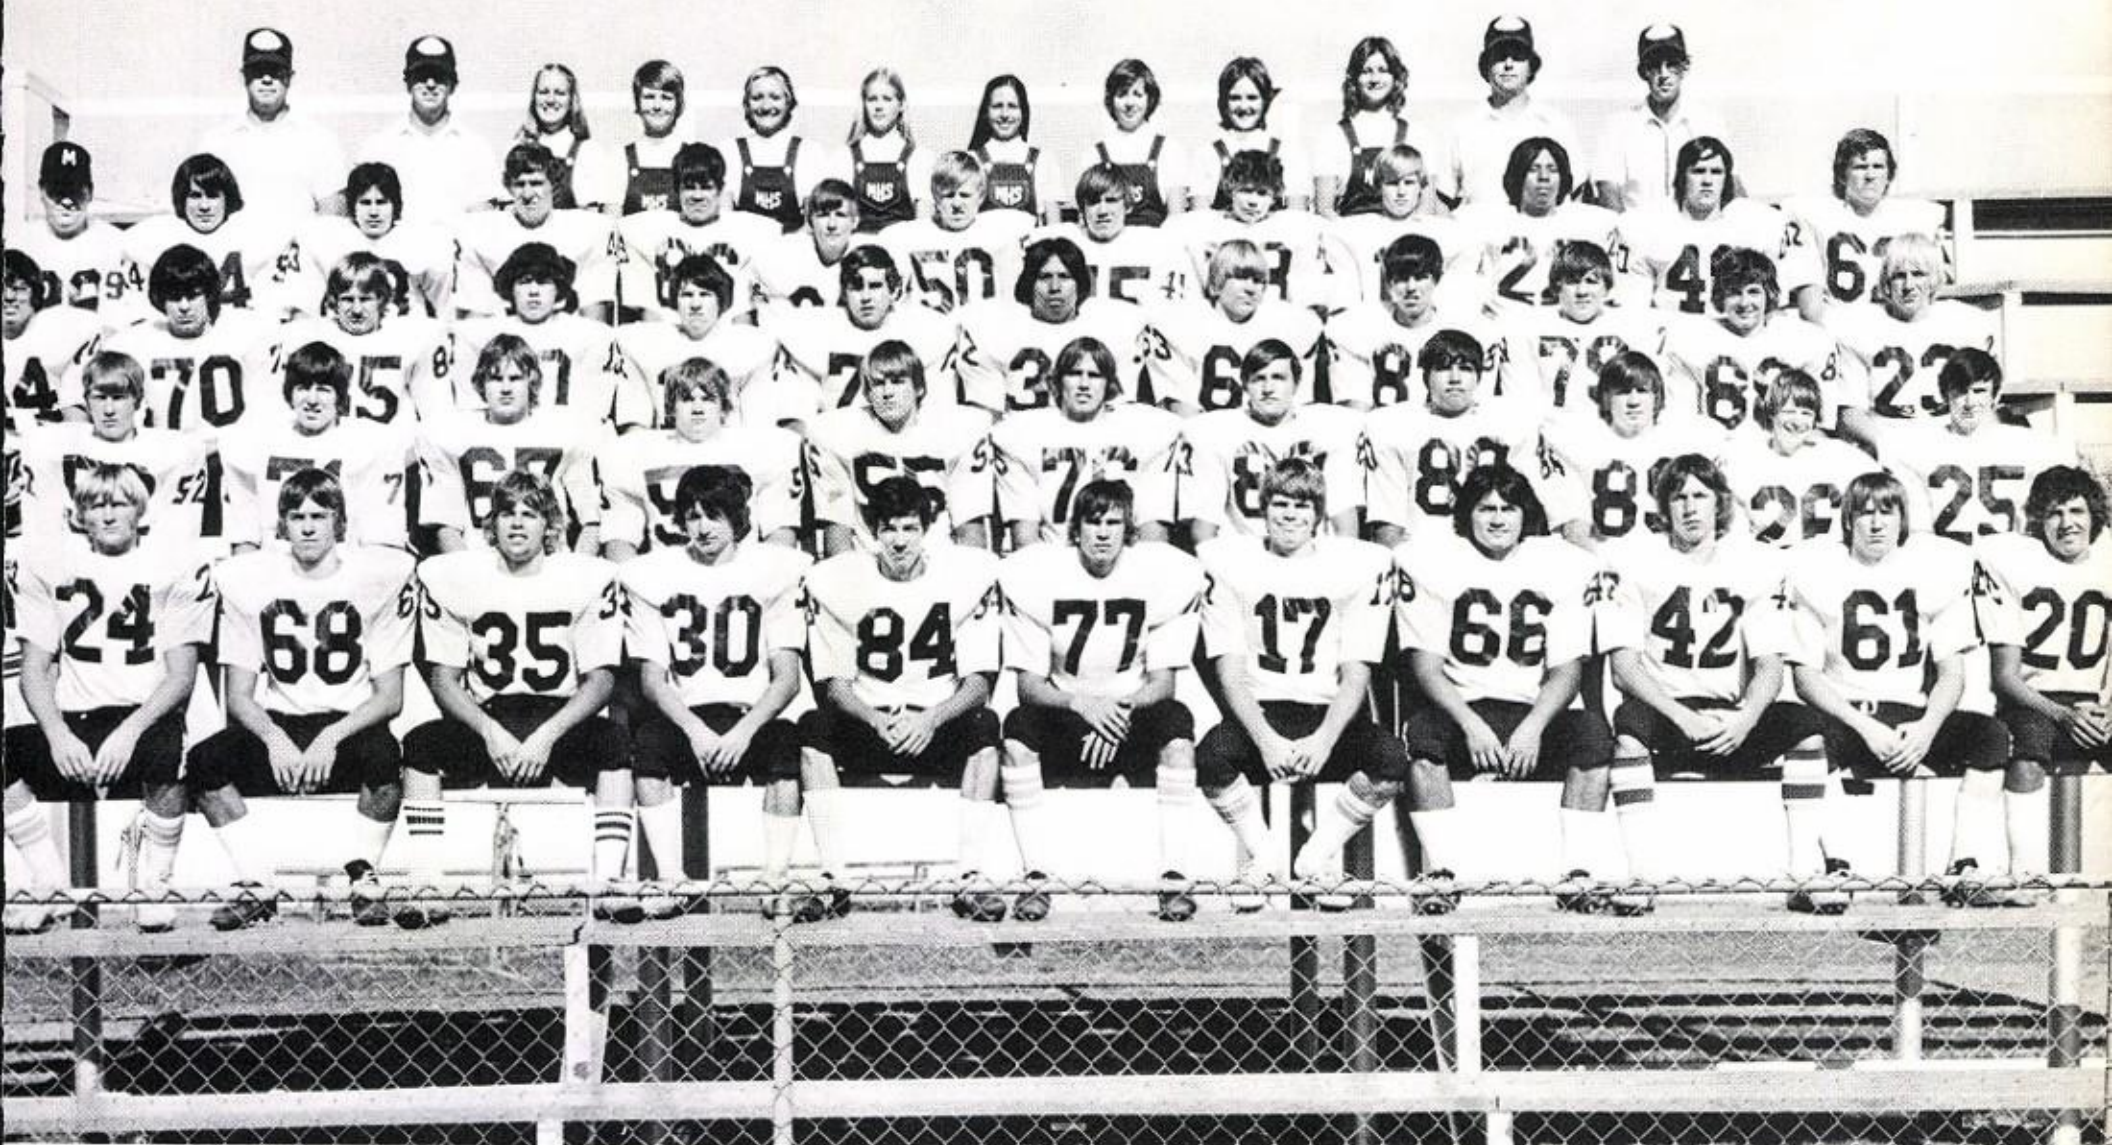

Even though they were "smallish" in size they were very large in heart.

The 1976 Outlaws carved an outstanding 8-2 regular season record and a berth in the State Playoffs.

After graduation you will find many changes as time passes. You are preparing to meet these challenges. You must prepare for this each day.

Some of you will remain in Marlow; it is a good place to live and a good place to work. Our industry is growing. Some of you will go to other places. Many professions will be followed, and it is our hope that success will come to each of you.

We change from year to year, preparing to service your banking needs better. We continually add to our plant, and add to our personnel, to better serve you and your banking needs.

We wish for all of you a happy, healthful, and prosperous life.
